HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

MOLLIE'S BURGLAR.

Mary Wilson had passed the first seventeen years of her life in a country village; then she went to the city to visit her brother, and found its attractions so alluring, that six months passed away and the time of her return to country life was, as yet, indefinitely postponed. For two months previous to her visit, her country friends had vied with each other in telling her tales of the cunning, the wickedness, the subtility of city sharpers, pickpockets and burglars, until the idea became firmly fixed in her mind that she was going into a den of thieves; but as yet she had met with no adventure worthy of note, and was fast reaching the conclusion that city people were no worse than their country neighbors, when something occurred which caused her, for a short time at least, to change her mind. But of this more anon.

She was still heart whole, although she had been sought by several very eligible suitors since her arrival in the city, for she was a pretty girl, very desirable for her own sweet sake, but still more so as Mary Wilson, sister of the wealthy and influential lawyer Wilson. And this was how matters stood, when one Sabbath she chanced to see a stranger in the pew adjoining her brother's, and could not help seeing that the stranger was regarding her with admiring eyes, very handsome eyes they were, too, but she tried to dismiss all thought of him and them, as she had done of others on similar occasions, but found it impossible. Those dark eyes presented themselves to her mental vision with a persistency for which she could not account.

On Monday evening her brother bought tickets and invited his wife and sister to attend a lecture; and Miss Mollie caught herself wondering, as she donned her cloak and hat, if the dark-eyed gentleman would be there, and it he would look for her. She found the lecture insufferably dull, and concluded, after a time, to return home. She whispered this intention to her brother, who saw her to his carriage, and giving instructions to the coachman to return for them, he went back to his wife, while Miss Mollie was driven rapidly homeward. Arriving there, she left her hat and cloak in the hall, and ran lightly up the stairs to her room. The door was partly open although she was sure she had closed it, the gas was turned low as she had left it, and in the half-light she saw, before she reached the doorway, a man in the room. His back was toward her, and he was walking toward a large closet at the other side of the apartment. He opened the door and stepped inside, one glance told her that the key was in the lock; she ran swiftly across the room, her feet making little or no sound on the thick carpet. "Confound it," she heard him mutter, "why can't they leave things where a fellow can find them?" "Yes," she thought, "her first surmise was correct; it was a burglar." Like a flash she threw herself against the door and turned the key. She was terribly frightened, and felt quite sure that she should faint. But as her prisoner made no demonstrations beyond trying the door gently, this feeling soon wore off. She turned on the gas, drew a chair in front of the closet door, where she sat down to consider what it was best to do. If she called the servants they would be frightened; there would be noise and confusion, and perhaps he would get away. If she went down after a policeman, he might get out after she was gone; no, she would stay where she was and keep guard until her brother should return. She had surely caught him, and did it very neatly, too; and the more she thought of it, the braver and more jubilant she grew. She wished he would speak; she was anxious to know how he felt about the situation. Presently he did speak; he had a very pleasant voice; he tried the door again and asked, "Who locked that door?"

And she answered promptly, "I did."

'What for?'

'Why, to lock you in there, of course, and I don't intend that you shall get away, either.'

There was silence for a minute or two, then the prisoner remarked, 'Don't you think this joke has gone about far enough, Mollie, dear? Now let me out. There's a darling.'

'Oh! you wretch, you villain! How dare you?'

'How dare I what?'

'Why, call me that.'

'Thought it was my sister, by Jove!' he exclaimed, in a low tone. Then he bent down and took a look through the keyhole. This was what he saw: a graceful, girlish figure, robed in soft, clinging material; a bright, self-reliant face, fringed with masses of fluffy brown hair. It took him some time to make these observations, for the keyhole was so small that he could see but a part of the pretty picture at once. Then he remarked: 'I think, miss, there is some mistake.'

'Oh, yes, I suppose so,' sarcastically.

'I think I came into the wrong house.'

'I think you did.'

'Isn't this No. 4!'

'No, indeed, it is No. 2.'

'Well, I stop at No. 4; came there on Saturday to visit my sister, Mollie Brown. The houses must be just alike. I went to the lecture and found it dull, so came home, or thought I did.'

'Humph, a likely story.'

'I hope you may find it acceptable,' remarked the young man, who occasionally dabbled in literature. Then the comical side of the affair forced itself upon him, and he laughed, actually laughed; she heard him.

'You seem to enjoy the situation,' she said, somewhat spitefully, thinking it proof of his total depravity.

'I do, immensely.'

'I should think you would, with the gallows staring you in the face.'

'The gallows?'

'Yes, my brother will have you hanged.'

'Your brother?' then doubtfully and hesitatingly, 'Are you Bella Clark?'

'No, indeed; I am not,' very energetically; for Bella Clark—Dr. Clark's sister and Mrs. Brown's neighbor on the other side—was what Mollie Wilson always designated as 'a die-away sort of person,' and was her especial detestation.

'I am glad of that,' said the prisoner, in a relieved tone.

'Why?' with evident interest.

'Well, you know,' confidentially, 'I should not want her to capture me.'

'I should think not. Well, you need not fear, she never will, now.' A moment's silence, then:

'Don't you think it cruel to keep a fellow-being shut up in the dark so long?'

'A burglar isn't a fellow-being; he is just a—a—a—burglar.'

'A burglar! whew! Do you think I could put one of my cards through this keyhole?'

'I am sure I don't know.'

'May I try?'

'Yes.'

Then came a jingling of silver money and a rustling of garments as the man searched his pockets. 'Well, hang it all, I haven't got one!'

'I thought you had not.'

'They are in the breast-pocket of my coat. I left it in your hall; will you not go down and get one?'

'And have you come out and murder me while I am gone? No, sir.'

'Will you please let me out?'

'No, sir; never.'

'What, never?'

'Well, no,' smiling in spite of herself, 'not after that.'

'I suppose I could kick the door open. Well, there, there, don't be frightened; I will not kick or even try to get out.'

Then there was silence, and she began to feel a little doubtful about her prisoner and was debating with herself as to whether she had not better call a policeman, when she heard her brother and his wife in the hall below.

'Harry,' she called from the head of the stairs, 'come up here at once.'

Harry came. 'What is it, sis?'

'I've got a man shut in that closet. I think he is a burglar; but he says he isn't, and I begin to fear he is telling the truth.'

'How did you get him in there?'

'Well, I came up the stairs and he was just going into the closet, and I ran and locked him in.'

'Yes,' said a voice, almost choked with laughter, 'and I'm here yet.'

'Who are you?'

'Charles Kingsley, visiting my sister at No. 4, next door, I presume—left my hat and coat in your hall. You will find letters in the coat pocket; you can verify my statement in a moment, if you choose.'

'Charles Kingsley? called at my office to-day with Brown;' then to Mollie, 'It is all right, sis; burglars do not leave hats and coats in the hall. I have met this gentleman. You may come out,' he added, opening the door. And Mr. Kingsley advanced into the lighted room, and looked quizzically at his jailer. She gave one glance at the laughing brown eyes bent upon her, and then fled from the room. It was the gentleman she had seen in church.

'Ah! you are Mr. Wilson,' said Kingsley, in a pleased tone, as that gentleman held out his hand. 'I hope you will pardon me for entering your house in this manner. I arrived on Saturday, the houses are just alike on the outside—and inside, too, I believe—and in the dim light I did not notice the number. I should have noticed that this was a lady's room,' said he, glancing at its dainty furnishing, 'but the gas was turned low, and the room I occupied at my sister's is furnished much the same; in fact, she gave up her own room to me, for the house is full of company. I went into the closet for a bootjack I thought I had left there, and put my hand into a band-box; had just concluded that I had better have more light, when the young lady locked the door. I fear I frightened her very much; will you present my regrets, and say that I am truly sorry?'

'Come over to-morrow and dine with us and make your peace with the young lady yourself,' said Mr. Wilson.

The invitation so cordially given was accepted.

Six weeks from the date of his incarceration in the Wilson mansion he entered the Wilson parlar and found Miss Mollie alone. 'Miss Wilson,' he began, 'when I came here six weeks ago you thought I came here to steal, but you were the thief, for you stole my heart. You made me an unwilling captive then, but I have been a willing one ever since. I came here to-day to ask you if you will be my wife?"

And for an answer she laid her hand in his and hid her rosy blushes upon his shoulder,

A NATION OF EGG-EATERS.

At Least Fifty Million Eggs Daily Consumed by People in the United States.

"There are at least fifty million eggs consumed daily in the United States," said a wholesale dealer near Washington Market to a reporter.

"That is over four million dozen, and at an average price will amount to at least eighty thousand dollars. Think of the outlay and business activity required to handle this enormous quantity. The American people are egg-eaters. As a general thing the supply is equal to the demand, but about three years ago late after January we ran ashore on domestic eggs. What was the result? Europe began to ship us pickled eggs by the millions. Shiploads came over. Prices went down and the European pickled eggs at fourteen cents a dozen became immensely popular. This almost ruined our home egg market. During the months of April and May the eggs are pickled by means of a solution of lime water. They are kept until November and December, and then come in to lower the market. Fresh eggs, though, are worth thirty cents a dozen."

"Where do the eggs in the United States principally come from?"

"From Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, North and South Carolina and Maryland. The Western States, of course, furnish large quantities, but not as much as the States mentioned. Nineteen million two hundred thousand eggs were shipped from Europe to this country since the 1st of April to September. They come from Belgium, Copenhagen, Hamburg, and the greatest egg mart in the world, Antwerp. But all these European eggs are pickled, and although not half so good as the fresh, yet they have the effect of lowering prices. All of the peasantry in Germany, Belgium and Holland raise large quantities of fowl. But in the United States a few farmers only pay attention to the industry."

"What is the reason that the farmers in the United States do not raise more fowls?"

"Simple enough. They have been in the habit of making large profits from stock and grain and other products, and thought egg-raising too slow. They see their mistake now, and in less than ten years eggs will be exported instead of imported."

"How will the increase come about?"

"If this new experiment of hatching eggs by means of heaters proves successful, then bacon and beef as life-sustaining foods will perhaps be supplanted. Thus far the results on a limited scale have proven successful, and the old hen, instead of wasting days over a dozen or so of eggs, can be putting in her time laying fresh eggs. Thus a double saving will be made. Every farmer with enterprise will have an egg farm or hatchery, just as the rich have hot houses now, and send millions of eggs to market. New York, perhaps, will be the greatest egg center in the world, and ships will be chartered by the wholesale to do the export business."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

SONOMA, DECEMBER 5, 1885.

OUR STREETS.

The wisdom of our Trustees in expending most of the money collected last year in improving our streets is now apparent. While the people of Santa Rosa, Petaluma and other towns are complaining bitterly of the muddy and fearful condition that their streets have been left in by the November rains, the people of Sonoma can be congratulated that they have no complaints to make on that score. It is true that all our streets are not in as good condition as is Napa Street and First Street West but they will be made so the coming year. Work will soon commence on First Street East. After that thoroughfare is well graded and graveled attention will be given by the Trustees to other streets and in another year Sonoma will boast of as level and well graveled streets as can be found anywhere.

ACCORDING to the Boise City (Idaho) "Statesman," the first massacre of Chinese in the United States took place in Idaho in 1868, when seventy of them were killed by Indians. They had left the mines in Nevada and were proceeding in bands to the placers of Idaho, in search of work and gold. It was the first time Chinamen had ever been seen by the Shoshone Indians, and they were the last they wanted to see. A freighter, who was well-known to the Indians of that section, camped on the day following near the creek where the massacre took place, and the Shoshone chief explained to him how it all happened: "Mebbe so, mebbe not; he no white man, he no nigger, he no Injun. He go quack! quack! like um duck. He no good; Injun kill um all." The Shoshone then went through all the motions of pulling the queues and lifting the heathens' scalps, with many grimaces, and to the great delight of the freighter. The summary method of the Idaho reds in settling the Chinese question was adopted by the early miners of Cœur d'Alene. This has reference, probably, to the killing of Chinese in Owyhee county, an account of which was published at the time.

WELLS, FARGO & Co. have announced their reduced rates for sending money. The company has cut the tariff and it looks as though they intended to run opposition to Uncle Sam's post-offices. For sums of from $1 to $5 the fee is only 5 cents where Uncle Sam charges 8 cents; for amounts of from $5 to $10 the fee is the same as at the postoffice, but on all sums above that the express company has reduced the charges. The company claim for their system a greater accommodation to patrons, and grant immediate reclamation, of orders lost.

THE farmer and stockman, whose chins were down to their waistbands a short time ago, are not so down in the mouth as they were. The copious rains of November followed by the warm and favorable weather of the past week has had a tendency to change the aspect of things and a very promising season is ahead. Feed has got such a good start that no fears are apprehended from frost and with a few more pleasant days the farmer will be enabled to commence plowing operations.

THE San Francisco cigar-makers and manufacturers are aroused to the importance of getting rid of the Chinese, and well may they be when it is known that out of 7,200 persons employed in that business in that city over 5,000 are Chinamen. It is only a question of time when the mongol will invade all kinds of trades as he has that of cigar making and the quicker he is bounced out of the country the better it will be for all classes and all trades.

WAR TURNED INTO A FARCE.

The war waged upon the Apache Indians of Arizona and New Mexico by the United States is a mere farce in so far as accomplishing anything in the way of protecting the lives and property of American citizens in those Territories and the people of the Republic of Mexico are concerned. The troops—regulars, volunteers and hired Indian scouts—engaged in the marches and counter marches in pursuit of the dusky savages number thousands. They are well mounted, provided with the most improved arms, cannon, transportation facilities and a commisariat equal to any possible emergency, to say nothing of the telegraphic communication upon parallel lines throughout the length and breadth of the theatre of strife and and carnage. The foe consists of but about three score of savage men and their squaws and papooses, yet, after a continuance of hostilities for a year, not a dozen Indians have been made to bite the dust and not exceeding that number of old men, women and children have been captured, though more than 150 hardy miners, bold travelers, settlers and a few soldiers (?) of our army have been slaughtered and scalped. The wily red man has had the best of the fight since the commencement of hostilities, notwithstanding the best Generals of the army have commanded the troops in the field, aided by the advice of General Sherman, renowned for his great achievements in the late Civil War and the annihilation of the Piegan Nation in the Northwest after hostilities had ceased between the North and South.

In all the pursuits, skirmishes, battles and raids of the past twelve months, with the great Indian fighter General Crook, directing the movements of the army in the field, in not a single instance has Geronimo, the Apache chief, been out generaled, though he has crossed through Arizona and New Mexico and penetrated Old Mexico hundreds of miles from the San Carlos reservation and back again on many occasions. In these raids fire, murder, and rapine have marked his bloody path without his receiving serious interruption or hinderance by our gallant army. Throughout the entire campaign, though the largest towns and most densely populated settlements of Arizona have been held in mortal fear and menaced by the death-dealing Indians, our armies have succeeded admirably in nearly every instance in being where the Indians were not, yet ever in "close pursuit" and on "fresh trails." Millions of the Nation's treasure have been spent in these futile attempts to reduce the Apache to submission and afford immunity to settlers from his stealthy and murderous forays.

The excuses given for the many failures of the United States troops to overtake and whip the savage band are numerous, among them being that the Indians know the trails, travel immense distances with great rapidity, getting relays of horses and mules as often as needed from the stock ranges and always striking settlements and military posts when least expected, doing all the damage in their power and getting out of the way before a force can be organized to pursue and give them battle.

Congress will convene next Monday and it should take measures to put an end to this farcial warfare that has been carried on by General Crook, by providing some means for conquering the savages, even though the entire band in and out of the San Carlos reservation has to be exterminated.

A Railroad Man's Views.

Mr Joseph Hickson, the agent in Toronto, Canada, of the New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railroad Company, is well-known throughout the Dominion. He writes that for several weeks his little girl was ill with bronchitis. He used different preparations and also had her treated by a physician, but without effect. Finally, he tried Red Star Cough Cure, and before one bottle was finished she was perfectly well.

The following newspaper law may be of interest to subscribers of country journals who want their paper stopped while owing for the same: "If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send the paper till payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken out of the office or not."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Senators and Representatives Arriving.

The Silver Question to be the Principal One—Other Matters.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27, 1885.

Everything in Washington is bustle and preparation for Congress and the social season. Senators and Representatives are dropping into the city, and the crowds on Pennsylvania avenue are larger every day. Men talk politics, the work of the coming session, the probable attitude of the Senate to the President, the Speakership, and the leadership of the Republican minority in the House, which will be decided soon in caucus. Ladies talk dinners, receptions and toilets. They are under the influence of milliners and modistes, in preparation for the part they are to take in society's winter carnival.

The season promises to be a brilliant one. A prosperous business season always brings a large number of visitors to Washington. The improvement in business this fall will be felt in that way here. Then a long session of Congress always brings a larger crowd than a short one.

The members of the new administration will do their parts socially. The two New York members of the Cabinet will lead as entertainers. They both have large fortunes and are supported by wives who are fond of society. Secretary Bayard lives in a rather modest house, and says his means will not permit his taking a larger one. He has a large family, which is still dependent upon him.

The President will do socially what etiquette requires of him, nothing more. The regular official dinners will be given at the White House, but it is likely he will adhere to his resolution of accepting no invitations except perhaps to Cabinet dinners. Cabinet officers have had a custom of dining each other once a week. Presidents have been in the habit of attending these dinners.

The question which will come most promptly before Congress is undoubtedly that of silver. The probable discussion of this question has brought out a great many books on the subject and the Congressmen who have come to the city have been hunting up literature relating to financial questions. The distinguished ex-editor of the "World," Manton Marble, has sent to each member of Congress during the week, a pamphlet entitled "The Great Monetary Powers," accompanied by his card and compliments. He now advocates the suspension of the coinage of silver in the United States. The interest in the silver question quite overshadows just now that of the tariff.

A few days ago, the tariff and anti-tariff champions, Representative Morrison and Ex-Speaker Randall, met by chance in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster-General. The late antagonists on the tariff question shook hands cordially, inquired about each other's health, and chatted in a way that refuted the allegation of personal ill-feeling between them.

Mr. Randall spent three hours with the President one evening this week, and they talked about changing the rules of the Lower House, so as to permit more legislation during the coming session. The President favors as much legislation as can possibly be crowded into the session. He indorses the plan to divide the appropriation bills among the committees. He has said the tariff could very well go over until next session if necessary, and that there were more important matters to look after. He also favors action on the silver question, and a good deal of his message will be given to that subject.

The situation in which the President will find himself in reference to the Senate on the meeting of Congress will be peculiar. The majority of the Senators are opposed to him in politics. Some Democratic Senators are opposed to the course he has pursued in regard to appointments. Some of these have declared their intention of opposing him on the ground that his nominations are not Democratic in the sense that they should be, and further as a means of forcing him to make more changes than he seems inclined to make. To the Senate thus constituted, the President will have to submit a variety of nominations. Its attitude towards him will be watched with great interest.

Is it true that Mike Turley joined the Sonoma Brass Band last Tuesday evening?

And now the festive small boy is in the height of his glory—school closed yesterday.

The Napa stage was one hour behind time last Thursday, owing to some delay of the train.

"Tom and Jerry" and "Hot Scotch" are the most popular drinks this season of the year.

The Clay Literary Society is in a growing condition, there being one or more members initiated at each meeting.

The glorious bright weather we have had the latter part of this week has put all our farmers in a good humor.

The Union Hotel is doing a rushing business. Don't forget that this hotel is becoming more popular every day. *

Left at Badger's Furniture Store a pair of buck driving gloves, which the owner can have by paying for this notice, *

The most complete and handsomest assortment of Christmas and New Year cards ever kept in Sonoma can be seen at Jas. Ruffner's. *

We would suggest that the "City Dads" place street lamps around the Plaza, as we are liable to lose some of our best citizens one of these dark nights.

The shade trees in front of many of our residences and business houses have been pruned of their foliage, thus giving them quite a sombre appearance.

John Miller, the popular manager of Sackett's express, tried to "strike bottom" in front of Clewe's store on Thursday morning. A burst in the water main was the cause.

James Martin, Jr., formerly a resident of this place, is now "punching the fare in the presence of the passengaire" on the Omnibus Street Railway in San Francisco.

We have sufficient talent among the young men of this burg to organize a minstrel club, by which means many pleasant evenings might be spent in listening to the burnt cork comedian without going abroad.

The Sonoma Brass Band serenaded mine host of the Union Hotel, Henry Raschen, last Tuesday evening, the occasion being his thirty-third birthday anniversary. The boys were entertained right royally and a "slashing" good time was had by all present.

One of our marriageable young gents started for the train the other morning, and in attempting to ford the lake in the Plaza got stuck in the mud, and while fooling around trying to get free the train went away and left him behind. Take a lantern next time, Jake.

Make your vineyards permanent by planting resistant vines. O. R. Rufus advertises them for sale. They are a scarce article this season and our vineyardists would do well to send in their orders early if they do not want to get left.

Prof. R. C. Powell died near Santa Rosa recently, his complaint being asthma. He was an old pioneer and is well-known all over Sonoma county, he having taught dancing school for many years. He was a brother of Mose Powell of this valley.

At a regular meeting of Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F. last Saturday the following were elected officers for the ensuing term: W. P. Wilson, N. G.; M. F. Turley, V. G.; H. Lutgens, R. S.; Jas. Albertson, P. M. S.; R. B. Lyon, T. R.; John Miller, Trustee.

H. C. Manuel of this place, has received the contract for furnishing the paving blocks and cross walks for San Francisco. His bid was $37 10 per 1,000 for the basalt blocks and 60 cents per lineal foot for cross walks. J. W. McDonald was the next lowest bidder.

The programme to be presented at the Clay Literary Society next Monday evening will be an entertaining one. There will be selections from Byron, the Literary paper will be read and other attractions presented.

Sheriff Bishop collected over $8,700 in taxes in this town last Saturday. Parties who failed to pay up on that day have till the 28th inst. to do so at the Tax Collector's office in Santa Rosa, after which time taxes will become delinquent and 5 per cent will be added to the amount.

At the regular meeting of Bear Flag Lodge, No. 97, K. of P., held at their hall on Thursday evening of last week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: W. Trudgen, C. C.; F. CITY TRUSTEES' MEETING.

No More Trespassing on Cemetery Tract---Bills Allowed---Etc.

The Board of Trustees of Sonoma met in regular session on Wednesday evening last. All the members were present except President Haraszthy, and Trustee McHarvey occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

The following bills were allowed and warrants ordered drawn for same: George Estes, street work, $12 10, A. J. Van Avery, work on curb planks, $7 50; L. Breitenbach, collecting taxes and services, $62 04; T. Ryan, street work, $30.

The bill of H. H. Granice, for $4 50, was referred to the Printing Committee.

It was moved by Trustee Cornelius and seconded by Trustee Wegner that the Street Committee be allowed $10 17 for purchasing a grating on the corner of Napa and First Street West. Carried.

On motion of Trustee Wegner, which received a second from Trustee Cornelius, it was decided that the Board give notice that no trespassing will be allowed on the Cemetery tract, embracing about 70 acres and belonging to the city. It was further ordered that the Board advertise the same for rent for a term of years, all the members voting in favor of the proposition.

A bid was received from Wm. Booth for grading First Street East. It was rejected for want of money to carry on the work.

It was moved by Trustee Wegner and seconded by Trustee Weyl that the Street Committee have the walk on the north side of Napa street, alongside the Plaza, graded to the width of ten feet. It was estimated that the cost of the work would be $20.

On motion of Trustee Wegner the Board was requested to meet to-day at 1 P. M. to examine First Street East and to take action in regard to grading and graveling the same.

The Board then stood adjourned.

The Late Col. Donahue's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Col. Peter Donahue took place in San Francisco last Saturday. Rev. Father Pendergast delivered the funeral oration in St. Mary's Cathedral. The floral offerings are described as being magnificent. One of the most beautiful offerings came from the Sonoma Valley and San Francisco North Pacific Railroad Companies. It consisted of a large piece in the form of gates ajar, having on each side a shock of ripened oats and the gates being surmounted by an anchor of dark pansies. The funeral was one of the largest that ever wended its way toward the cities of the dead in that city.

Fraudulent.

The suits in ejectment which were brought some six months ago by Henry Schwartz against Mrs. K. F. Warfield, John Gibson, J. W. McKamey and a number of other Glen Ellen people will no doubt be dismissed, as the city papers are authority for the statement that the claim upon which Schwartz based his title was fraudulent, he having been imposed upon by a woman who personated a reputed owner of the land in dispute, a Mrs. Heppener. Schwartz gave $500 for the bogus deed. The parties who imposed on him will be prosecuted.

Graduated.

The Misses Gabrielle . Aguillon and Arvilla Cheney graduated from the advanced course of the Sonoma Public School yesterday. The course which they have finished fits them for the State University, and when the County Board of Education meets they will receive their diplomas. The young ladies received the hearty congratulations of their many friends for their perseverence and ultimate success.

Birthday Party.

A surprise party was given to Miss Effie McCaskie by her young friends, last Saturday afternoon, the occasion being her eleventh birthday. Although the weather was stormy quite a number were present, and a very enjoyable time was had by the young folks. Among those present were Annie Walther, Sarah Jones, Pauline Bates, Lydia Culbertson, Mamie Church, Millie Skinner, Annie Wadsworth, Maggie Church, Pearl Manuel, Rosie Fischer, Mary Jones, George Jones, Henry Bates and Charlie Lane.

The Annual Examination.

The scholars of the Sonoma Public School underwent their annual written examination for promotion the past week, and be it said to the credit of both teachers and pupils, all the children show marked progress in their studies. The school closed yesterday for the winter vacation. The closing exercises by the pupils were unusually interesting, a full report of which will appear in our next issue.

The Union Hotel is becoming quite a resort for city visitors to Sonoma. The fame of this hotel is becoming well known to travelers and pleasure seekers. *

SCHUSTER AND HARTMANN

Famous Turners who are to Exhibit in Sonoma.

Among the visitors to Sonoma last Sunday was Clement J. Schuster, a young gentleman who formerly resided here. He left Sonoma several years ago, since which time he has become one of the most noted Turners in the United States. He and Charles Hartmann were the representatives of the Pacific Coast in the National Turn Feast at Newark, New Jer[illegible] ber, in which they [illegible] and 400 competitors [illegible] themselves with gl[illegible] taking the 24th and Ha[illegible] 31st prize. Flushed with victory they proceeded to Dresden, Germany, to compete in the great International Turner Feast, which takes place once in every four or five years. There were over seven hundred competitors entered in these games from all parts of the world but only fifteen were from the United States. The competition for the prizes consisted in work on the horizontal bar and parallel bars, side horse and long horse, high and wide jump, and slow lifting of a 56-pound dumbbell. Out of all competitors Hartmann received a diploma as 37th in merit and Schuster as 115th, which has awakened unusual enthusiasm among the California Turners. In trick, fancy and acrobatic turning, which was not a portion of the competition for prizes, and which is not much practiced in Germany, the California delegates "astonished the natives" and won expressions of the most undisguised admiration from the German press.

Partly because California had never before sent representatives to this International Turn Fest, and partly because of the fame of this distant State, our fortunate representatives were accorded everywhere the most enthusiastic reception.

In the grand procession through the streets of Dresden, in which there were 20,000 Turners in line besides numerous bodies and organizations, they were accorded the post of honor at the head of the column, and their banner, presented to them by San Francisco ladies, was completely hidden by the flowers presented to them on the march, while California was continually cheered by the spectators. Two blocks on one of the principal streets were made a solid bed of flowers, over which the Turners walked. The Anglo-American Athletic Club of Dresden received them royally, and, in fact, they were so loaded with honers as Californians that they had no time for rest. On their return to New York with the thirteen Eastern delegates, they met a big reception, and have been feted in the same way in all the large Eastern cities.

These young men, together with Messrs. Otto Gierch, Oscar Hauser, F. M'Closkey and John Schuster, have been prevailed upon to visit Sonoma for the purpose of giving our people an opportunity to witness their feats in turning. Union Hall has been engaged and on Saturday evening, December 19th, one of the finest gymnastic exhibitions that has ever taken place in Sonoma county will be given. Our people will not be behind hand with other localities in according these young gentlemen the honor that is justly due them as representative athletes and Union Hall will be crowded on the evening in question. After the gymnastic exercises there will be a social hop, under the auspices of the San Francisco Athletic Club, and dancing will be indulged in until 11:45. The club will bring with them excellent music and a good time is assured to all who may attend.

Clay Literary Society.

MR. EDITOR:—Believing the following programme for Clay Literary Society will bring out a crowded house, next Monday evening, I respectfully request its insertion in your local columns. The members have heretofore and still continue to display energy enough, so that the presence of the public, young and old, is all that is needed to make the society a success. Following is the programme:

Fault Finding.

[Polly Larkin in Petaluma Courier.]

What a terrible habit it is to get in the way of finding fault with everybody. We find fault with this one because he hasn't done so and so, and we censure another because he has done so and so. They have been too hasty or too slow, or they might have managed better. Whatever is done can't be undone, so why not let it pass and devote our time and attention to something more pleasant than making those around us miserable and unhappy. Fault-finding is no satisfaction to us nor to our friends. Yet how many of us have unconsciously fallen into the habit and are not aware of the fact.

HEALDSBURG HAPPENINGS.

[Enterprise.]

Five inches of rain fell during the storm of Sunday and Monday last.

The tax collectors were here on Wednesday and Thursday, of this week. The first day over $6,000 were collected, and on both days, about $10,000.

Eld. R. Corbaley has returned to Healdsburg after an absence of over a year. He has been visiting his sons, Platt and Alraso in Washington Territory.

In consequence of the storm and unprecedented rainfall on the night of the 23d, trains were delayed, and for more than 24 hours no mails were received here.

An awful storm of thunder and lightning visited Beaty's ridge in the northwest part of the county a few days since. Seventeen large redwood trees were struck and knocked down across the road in a short distance. The road was completely blocked.

On Wednesday afternoon Mat. Calahan, who lives about seven miles from Healdsburg, discovered a small coffin, which had been washed ashore by the high water in Russian River. The next morning Calahan came to town and informed Justice Emerson of the mournful discovery, and that official advised the removal of the coffin to this place. Coroner King was informed, and came up on the evening train from Petaluma. The ghastly burden was taken in to J. Young's, where the lid was unscrewed and the contents revealed to the jury and witnesses. Portions of a skull, a few small bones, a bottle of medicine, beads and a number of half-dollars indicated that the remains were those of an Indian infant, and the verdict of the jury was to that effect. One of the coins bore the date "1876," and it was thought that the coffin had been under ground at least five years.

PETALUMA PICKINGS.

[Petaluma Courier.]

The tramps have migrated.

An albino blackbird is occasionally seen flying about the valley.

Farmers tell us that this is splendid grass weather and if it continues for two weeks longer stock on the ranges will be able to care for themselves.

The streets of Petaluma were never in a worse condition than they are since the flood. It left a surplus of water that will be some time in draining or drying off.

The many friends of Mrs. Orton Hubbel of Tomales will be sorry to learn that recently, while getting off the cars at Tomales station she received a severe fall from the express platform, dislocating her knee and breaking one of the small bones below the knee.

A gentleman well posted as to the market for horses here says that since January last over twenty thousand dollars worth of horses have been sold in Petaluma to parties outside the county. There is scarcely a day that some foreign buyer is not examining our market with a view to purchasing horse stock.

CLOVERDALE CLIPPINGS.

[Reveille.]

The Geyserville bridge was damaged to the extent of $200 by the recent heavy storms.

A few hill vineyards in this vicinity were badly cut up and otherwise damaged by the late heavy rains.

The tax collectors, Messrs. Geo. A. Thornton and H. W. Smith, visited our place last Monday and took away $3,660.

A large number of sheep are said to have perished in the neighboring mountains during the recent heavy rain storms.

The recent rain and wind storm was unprecedented, in this section, for many years past. It was surely an "old timer." Russian River fairly howled in its majestic power, having reached its highest water mark since 1878, and seemed to glory in carrying everything before it.

PERSONAL.

Jos. Dearing, formerly a resident of Sonoma and well-known to many of our young men, is now a resident of Westminster, B. C.

Wm. Green, Jr., and wife were in San Francisco last Wednesday.

Mrs. W. C. Goodman and Mrs. E. Cassebohm of Embarcadero, were in San Francisco this week.

Mr. Lewis Lewton, who has been living on the Simmons place, recently purchased by Mr. Sheppard, has removed to Napa.

The entertainment and hop of the Clay Literary Society has been postponed from New Year's Eve till the latter part of February.

SANTA ROSA NEWS.

[Daily Democrat.]

The first ballot of the jury in the Houser trial stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

Wednesday evening about 7 o'clock, Daniel Ewing, a quarryman, was assaulted on Main street and robbed of $20 in gold and several dollars in silver.

The sad death of Bernard Rohrer occurred at the family residence on Wright street, Sunday, November 29th, after an illness of only about a week. This is a double blow to the grief-stricken family, Mrs. Rohrer having died several weeks ago. Bernard Rohrer was just 24 years and 5 months of age. He was a native of California, and was born in Petaluma. He was a member of Company E, and also of the Amateur brass band. His open, frank and genial disposition made him many friends. His death is universally regretted by all who knew him, and his loss will long be felt.

WASTE PLACES.

The Desolate Localities Which Support Animal Life.

The Russian explorer Prejevalsky said after his recent journey in northern Thibet that an enormous amount of animal life was supported by the scanty herbage growing on these bleak, half-sterile plains that form the highest plateau in the world, some thirteen thousand feet above the sea. He said the wild yaks here must number millions, and that a full grown yak weighs from sixteen hundred to eighteen hundred pounds. Nature's chemistry evolves these great masses of flesh from the poor herbage of a region so lofty that its lakes are frozen over until nearly June, though they are six hundred miles nearer the equator than we are.

Explorers tell us that not only does animal life abound, but that man can live in some of the most desolate parts of the globe. It is a mistake to suppose that the Sahara desert is merely a useless sandy waste. Much of it lacks not so much cultivable land as industrious hands to make the vast expanse of withered oases blossom again. The Mussulman sect known as the Senoussians has for years been digging wells, irrigating the land, and turning many hundreds of barren acres into gardens. Twenty-four years ago it planted its headquarters in the desert near the western border of Egypt, built reservoirs, began plantations, erected convents, and now a population of eight thousand people live at Jarabub, where the soil has been restored to fertility by their labors. There are large areas in the Sahara that need only rain or irrigation to cover them with verdure. Through these regions pass the caravan routes, along which the fifty thousand camels engaged in the Saharan commerce bear their burdens.

Mr. Anderson, the civil engineer who last year completed sixteen years of explorations in South Africa, between the Orange and Zambesi Rivers, says that the rain that falls for a few weeks every year in the great region known as the Kalahara Desert covers the blackened, verdureless plain with splendid vegetation. Game is abundant there, especially lions, leopards, and ostriches, and he has counted in this desert twenty-two lions in a troop, and has seen two hundred ostriches in one flock. Beasts and birds find sustenance in this region where only a few bushman hunters live. Far northeast of them on the semi-arid steppes of Kordofan and Darfur millions of sheep and camels exist on the scanty pasturage of that desert region.

The earliest Arctic explorers found in the little Spitzbergen archipelago—where, it is believed, no human being had ever lived—herds of reindeer upturning the snow with their hoofs and noses to get at the lichens on which they fed. Many reindeer live as far north as Littleton Island, and several scores of them were killed by the Hayes and Polaris expeditions. Musk oxen, or their traces, have been found along the shores of the great frozen sea as far north as explorers have attained. Lockwood far north of the supposed limits of animal life, found traces of this wonderful quadruped, which grows fat on the tender shoots of the Arctic willow, and ploughs up the snow for moss and lichens.

Of all parts of the earth the Antarctic regions alone are comparatively destitute of life. Few species of living things in the vegetable or animal kingdom can endure the rigor of the South Polar region. No terrestrial quadruped inhabits the land within the Antarctic circle, and whales and seals are the only mammals that enter its area. Summer in the Arctic regions, with its abundant life on land and in the air and sea, presents an animated and cheerful scene compared with the utter desolation that reigns perpetually in Antarctic waters.—*N. Yeddo Rebuilt Every Seven Years.

[New York Times.]

In Japan earthquakes have had a very noticeable influence in determining the nature of the buildings. Architecture, as understood in other parts of the world, may be said to have hardly any existence there. In consequence of the frequent shakings to which the houses are subjected it is said that the great city of Yeddo has to be practically rebuilt on an average every seven years. Fire almost invariably follows a great earthquake in Japan.

Christianity in Jerusalem.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat]

A new Christian church is about to be built in Jerusalem. The Germans have obtained possession of the site of the ancient hospital of the Knights of St. John, and arrangements have been made for the erection of a German Protestant church. In this cradle centre of Christianity are to be found Greeks, Romanists and Protestants; and Jerusalem presents in miniature divided Christendom.

The Lowest Temperature.

[Exchange.]

The lowest recorded temperature—393 degrees below zero Fahr.—has been produced by Olszewski by vaporizing liquid nitrogen under low pressure. Liquid carbon monoxide gave 365 below zero, and liquid oxygen 211½.

One More or Less.

[Acto Columbiana.]

Scene: Paris. Mrs. Spriggins—Beautiful clock over there! How well it would match my Louis XIV furniture! Dealer—Ah, oui, madame, but it is a Louis XV. Mrs. S.—Oh, one more or less doesn't matter to me.

Removing Corpses from Mexico.

[Texas Paper.]

Under Mexican laws with reference to the disinterment and removal of bodies from the state, a duty of $100 is exacted by each state through which the body passes. Besides there are fees to judges and physicians in procuring the exhumation of bodies.

The transmission of messages by carrier pigeons is regarded so important in Germany that foresters have been ordered to take vigorous measures to exterminate falcons, hawks and other birds of prey.

UNCLE LEVI.

The Knowledge of Human Nature Required by the Pawnbrokers.

In following a false trail yesterday an American reporter had occasion to visit several pawnbrokers' establishments, in one of which he undertook to get at some facts bearing upon this mysterious calling. He had a hard time of it. In answer to a question he put to a proprietor he got a knowing wink, and the object of his inquiry walked to the front of his narrow shop and wrote down the name of a customer who had just redeemed some trifle.

"Nah; I know you. You are a reporter, and I ain't going to give away my business. I don't want you to say anything at all about me or my business, either;" and he struck a match under the ledge of the show-case and lit the stump of a cigar that had gone out during the customer's visit.

"No, sir," with a strong accent on the "sir," "I don't give away my business. I have built this business up by dealing on the square, and it ain't square to tell you what I know about pawners."

"You run a jewelry show in connection with your other business, don't you?"

"No, I don't. But there you go. I say I won't say nothin'."

The reporter sat down, nevertheless, on a stool at the end of the counter, and as he cast an injured look at the other, said he did not want to give any man's business away, and wasn't going to do it.

"Of course, as a man of business, you must protect your customers," he submitted.

"That's just it, you see. Why, my customers have so much confidence in me they won't some of 'em take a ticket. I deal with the best people goin' and it's because I know how to treat 'em that I make my pile every year and say nothing about it. But I could tell you things you wouldn't hardly believe, but I ain't going to do it, though, so you needn't ask it."

"That's exactly right; no more you ought," the reporter responded.

"I say, do you know what codfish aristocracy is? You do? Of course you do. Well, there's lots of that in this town, lemme tell you, and what don't come in here ain't worth having. I never turn the screws on 'em though. If a pauper comes up and says right out: 'Here, I can't settle up, but I will if you'll be a little easy,' I just let him go with the premium.

"I say," asked the reporter, carelessly, "do the generality of people ante up when time's up?"

"Yes. I don't often have anything left over. You see, it's best to be easy. When a man or a woman has once borrowed they never fail to come back. They get to like it and lean on it."

"But it must be an awful nuisance to them to have to get the cash ready every time, is it not?"

"They come up on time, though. But you're gettin' too much out of me."

The reporter protested that he was not up to anything mean, and assured the speaker that he already had enough to write a column out of if he wanted to do so, and he might just as well go ahead.

"Well, if you just won't use my name anywhere about it, I'll show you what sort of business I'm doin'."

Softened at last, he undid a large safe of ingenious construction, and opened one after another half a dozen shallow drawers filled with gold watches of every description, make and value, from the large hunting cases of a man to the fragile diamond-studded Jergensen of feminine identity. Several had monograms traced upon the fronts in delicate designs. Other jewels, one rated at an even thousand dollars, lay separately boxed in other parts of the safe, and in a thick layer of bills, and several rolls of silver coins looked out at the reporter in a don't-you-admire-me sort of way.

"You see the run of my customers from these things, don't you?" asked the proprietor.

"Now, I have to study human nature here, and you wouldn't hardly believe how weak human nature is. All you've got to do is to look like a fool and be as wise as Solomon. Now, I am fond of theaters, and you can see me any night at the Masonic. I look at the people coming in, and I amuse myself that way a good deal. I'm no dude, myself, to go foolin' about and let somebody else get ahead. I see young fellows there get out of a carriage and hand a beautiful young lady up the stairs. Both of 'em are dressed up stylish and they take the dress circles every time, and that fine young rooster was just as like as not in my place lookin' for enough to get in on two hours before."

"You don't say?"

"Oh, that's nothin'. As I said before, I could tell you things you wouldn't hardly believe. But my policy is to deal on the square; it pays better, and I don't make enemies by it. But, if you want to know something about the business, some of the others might tell you. They don't have to be as particular as I am."—Nashville American.
